

The Richmond Examiner of the 17th inst. contains a letter from the Valley, referring to the movements of the Union cavalry under Colonel Powell, which says:—"The Federals came unexpectedly upon two members of First Maryland Cavalry, named Churchill Crittenden and Hartigan, who had been cut off from their company. Crittenden fought them to the last emptying every load out of his pistol, and wounding a Federal lieutenant very severely. The prisoners were brought through Luray in charge of a Capt. Pendergast. Crittenden was slightly wounded before taken. These two men were taken out, by order of Col. Powell, and were shot dead. The reason assigned for shooting them was that some of their men were shot while burning barns. Powell has issued an order declaring that for every Union soldier shot by lynch whackers he will hang or shoot two Confederate soldiers now held by him as prisoners." One of the New York papers states that Churchill Crittenden was a nephew of the late Senator Crittenden, of Kentucky.

A number of suits have been brought against the judges of election in Frederick county, Md., by citizens who were not allowed to vote at the recent election.

The yellow fever was abating at last dates at St. George in Bermuda, but is still raging in Hamilton.
